

Chinese New Year Celebrations 2012

12-4pm, Sunday 22 January 2012

Hove Town Hall, Norton Road, Hove BN3 4A

The Year of the Dragon

The next Chinese New Year starts on the 23rd January 2012. It is the year of the dragon! THE DRAGON is a totem of the Chinese nation, from a sign of deity and power to a symbol of great strength, goodness, fertility, vigilance, dignity and good luck. The ancient traditional performance of the dragon dance is a sight that creates an entertaining and auspicious new beginning to drive away bad luck and evil spirits. It is said that those who watch these performances will be lucky too.

Uncover the History of Chinese Folk Dances

This project, supported by the Heritage Lottery Fund, welcomes people of all ages and cultural backgrounds, to join and learn more about the ancient Chinese culture. We will be 'roaring in' the Chinese New Year on Sunday 22nd January 2012 at Hove Town Hall. Come and be inspired by the beauty and power of the Dragon /Lion and Fan dances. And learn more from the exhibition and displays about the history of Chinese New Year and the role of these dances in Chinese culture. And store up some luck for 2012!

There are a lot more performances throughout the event as well as many food stalls, exhibitions and hands on Chinese experience such as a taster Chinese class and dragon making. For more information: contact Nicole on 07766522225, nicoleqin@yahoo.com.
